SELLING foreign flour on the Shanghai market was slow work during the past few days, and showed slim results for the energy expended. At no time during the month has the flour market been brisk, so far as orders for foreign flour are concerned, but next month should show a better start. The output of the Shanghai mills is big and is finding a ready sale in the interior and the coast ports. The stocks in the mills stand at about a hundred thousand bags, which is below the figure of other weeks. There is no sign of relief from the Chinese wheat farmers.

Deliveries from the wheat producing centers have fallen off, which will make the dependence of the flour mills greater on American and Canadian wheats.

There appears little likelihood of the Shanghai flour market passing through another period of stagnation such as characterised the past season, and there seems to be every chance of doing a fair trade throughout the remainder of the season, unless foreign wheat goes up to such a height as will make the local-milled product too expensive for the users. In this connection, it might be added that during the last few days some of the small mills have been obliged to close down owing to the lack of the raw material. These mills have not enough finances to buy wheat abroad and stock locally. At present prices there is no big margin of profit to the flour millers in Shanghai, most of them being able only to pay their expenses and net a small profit in addition. Chinese-milled flour is selling at Tls. 2.03 per sack for spot cargo.

The export situation looks rather encouraging, but the underlying sentiment in the market is divided. To many it seems that the Shanghai millers interested in flour cannot afford to pay more than the present level of prices for Canadian wheat No. 3 quality.

The nature of the buying of wheat by the Shanghai flour mills indicates that the mills cannot fill their needs in the United States, where prices are considered too high for them, and are going to Canada, where values are lower than they are in the United States. Two shipments of 7,000 and 8,000 tons of Canadian wheat were closed last week in No. 3 grade at the rate of G.$38.50 per ton for bulk shipment cif. Shanghai.

When it is pointed out that American wheat is selling at G.$42.50 per ton for bag shipment cif Shanghai it will be understood why the Shanghai mills are at the moment more interested in Canadian than American wheat No. 2 grade Canadian wheat is quoted at G.$40.00 per ton, but the millers prefer a grade lower than that. No. 3 Canadian is slightly inferior to the American Red Pacific wheat, but far superior to the Chinese variety.

Apparently, the Chinese millers have been giving the subject serious thought and have after some experiments found that the third grade would suit their purpose admirably. Some of the mills are desirous of awaiting the arrival of the shipments of Canadian wheat No. 3 already contracted for, and if they come up to expectation the popularity of this grade will increase rapidly among the mill-owners.

Orders for American flour are not as heavy as in previous months. Although merchants are participating in contracts the buying does not run into big volume The past week's trading has resulted in only a thousand tons being booked for January-February shipment at G.$5.40 per barrel, cif Shanghai. Probably what is deterring the merchants from placing further large orders is the large quantity that has already been contracted for shipment up till January next. Arrivals of American flour are good and quickly absorbed. If the freight situation on the Pacific Coast were more promising and less difficulty prevailed regarding the securing of space for forward shipments a larger amount of business would be transacted. All the interior markets that are consuming flour are taking their quota from Shanghai.

There seems to be a fairly steady demand for Canadian flour, mostly for low grades, from Hongkong and other parts of China. Sales from Vancouver are confined to the amount of space that can be secured. It is stated that liner space for wheat shipments from Canada for December-January shipment is available and exporters from Vancouver have been able to secure all they require.

The decision of the Japanese Government to continue its duty of $1.36 per barrel on imported flour while admitting foreign wheat duty free has elicited protests both from the American and Canadian millers. What effect these protests will have is problematical, but it might be added that the millers in the United States and in Canada consider this an unwarranted discrimination.

Separate Action Is Peril To Entente, London Warns

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Nov. 22.—The report of the United States Ambassador at Paris, Mr. Myron Herrick, to the Secretary of State, Mr. Hughes, with regard to the meeting of the Conference of Ambassadors on Monday is understood to state that the Marquess of Crewe declared that Britain hoped that France would weigh fully the serious results of further separate action which might imperial the existence of the Entente. If the French carried out such a policy in defiance of British wishes, Britain might be inclined to withdraw her representatives from all inter-Allied bodies, like the Conference of Ambassadors, and the Military Control Commission.

The Italian representative strongly supported the British attitude and the Belgian Ambassador declared that he could not without further reference to Brussels commit Belgium to co-operation with France in further territorial sanctions. The Ambassadors considered this to mean that Belgium had decided not to co-operate if Britain and Italy were determined on a formal rupture if France did not yield.

M. Cambon then made the first important concession, declaring that France did not intend to take territorial sanctions.

The draft Note on the lines for which Britain asked was then completed in two hours and approved by M. Poincare.

Mr. Baldwin and Marquess Curzon on Tuesday objected to certain phrases as committing Britain too far to ultimate sanctions if Germany defied or ignored the remonstrances. M. Poincare accepted these amendments yesterday.

Paris, Nov. 23.—Former Minister of Foreign Affairs Hymans f Belgium, speaking in the Belgian Chamber of Deputies at Brussels today, expressed strong disapproval of any plan which would create a Rhenish Republic. The creation of a republic in the Rhineland, he contended, would afford no additional security to Belgium, while on the other hand it would never be based upon the will of the resident population.

COMMUNISTS OF BERLIN SEIZED WHILE AT DRILL

Vast Stores Of Arms Are Taken In Raids By Police

(Exclusive China Press)

Berlin, Nov. 23.—Huge stores of arms, alleged to have been collected by communist leaders in Berlin in preparation for an armed revolt against the Stresemann government, have been located and confiscated within the past few days by the Berlin police.

The munitions seized by the police include more than one thousand rifles, revolvers and other firearms, as well as considerable stores of ammunition.

Activities of the Communists have been increasing at a feverish pace lately, possibly in the expectation that the Stresemann government will be unable to weather the storm and that the opportunity for a coup d'etat will then present itself.

Several armed proletarian units were arrested yesterday while at drill in a suburb on the outskirts of the city, but others escaped.

Chancellor Loudly Applauded; Vote Of Censure Is Delayed

(Reuter's Service)

Duesseldorf, Nov. 23.—It is understood that separatist leaders have decided not to try to seize any more cities but will disband the bulk of their troops and shift the fight to a diplomatic field.

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Nov. 22.—A large force of police guarded every entrance of the Reichstag upon the resumption of the debate which was adjourned from November 20.

Dr. Stresemann dwelt on the hopelessness of the situation as long as Germany was in danger of bleeding to death from the wounds of the Rhine and the Ruhr. The Chancellor declared that he would not consent to see German payments go to France's cash book. "We have reached the end of our financial capacity."

Dr. Stresemnn announced the removal of the state of emergency in a number of districts. He declared that foreign financiers had offered the German Government a credit of at least 1,000,000,000 gold marks provided the present Government remained in power.

The Chancellor's speech was loudly applauded by a majority of the Deputies.

Paris, Nov. 22.—Large numbers of industries in the formerly occupied territories are requesting from the occupation authorities facilities for the return to normal working of their factories. Certain agreements have already been reached, particularly with the whole of the dye works, employing 50,000 workers, who have pledged themselves to provide the deliveries demanded as reparations. In exchange the High Commission has consented to a decrease in the export tariffs. An agreement of the same kind has been reached with the boot and shoe industries in the Pirmasen district, which employ 30,000 workers. These agerements will facilitate the resumption of economic life in the formerly occupied territories.

It is reported that the production of the Erin mine, which was recently seized, totalled 600 tons on November 20. Dr. von Kahr has rescinded the decree prohibiting the Oberland association from functioning.

Tariff Schemes Of Premier Are Denounced

London, Nov. 23.—It is expected that between 1,400 and 1,450 candidates will be nominated on Monday. Five hundred and twenty-two Conservatives have already been formally adopted. The Liberals expect to have 470 nominations and the Labor Party 420. There are about 30 Independents.

London, Nov. 22.—The attitude of the City of London toward protection was defined by Lord Hunsdon, presiding at a crowded meeting of the City Conservative Association today, which adopted Sir Frederick Banbury and Mr. Edward Grenfell as candidates.

Lord Hunsdon said that the view of the City was that protection was not a question of principle but of expediency. The city would like protective duties to be considered first with regard to the industries affected and also generally with regard to prevalent conditions.

The speaker expressed the opinion that one of the contributory causes of unemployment was the high death duties and the supertax.

Sir Frederick Banbury declared that Mr. Baldwin's proposals were identical with those of Mr. Lloyd George in 1921.

No Liberal candidature has up to the present been mentioned.

London, Nov. 22.—Much applause was forthcoming for speakers of all shades of opinion at well-attended meetings throughout the country, today.

Mr. J. R. Clynes, speaking at Manchester, said that nothing would set class against class more than the present election.

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald at Aberavon declared that it was a fallacy to talk of imperial preference while there was as big a duty against our goods going to the Dominions as on some going on the Continent.

Mr. Arthur Henderson at Newcastle denounced a tariff war when the paramount necessity was the establishment of international order founded on goodwill.

Sir Robert Horne at Glasgow imagined that the public's belief in the sincerity of Mr. Asquith and Mr. Lloyd George would be strained when it saw them embracing and singing "The voice that breathed o'er Eden". When Labour had been in power for a week nobody would want to go to Heaven. (Laughter.)

Mr. Walter Runciman at Brighton asserted that tariffs would not help the principal industries, shipbuilding, coal and textiles, and could in no way benefit more than 140,000 out of the 1,500,000 unemployed.

VINDICTIVENESS OF ROUMANIAN BRINGS JAIL TERM

Levi Ismos Imprisoned One Month For Violating Bond

The vindictive course of action pursued by Levi Ismos, a Roumanian Jew living at 7 Jukong Road, proved a boomerang for that individual when he appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday before Assessor Ivanoff and Magistrate Tsang.

Ismos appeared as complainant in the Mixed Court on November 9 when he charged a Mrs. Zimmerman with the larceny of certain documents and money. This charge was eventually withdrawn by Ismos' attorney, Mr. F. J. Schuhl, and both parties were ordered to sign a bond to keep the peace pending a civil action.

Last Thursday Ismos appeared at the Mixed Court and requested Chief Inspector Wheeler to issue a warrant for Mrs. Zammerman, against whom he had filed charges in the Chinese city court. Chief Inspector Wheeler compared the charges with those previously made in the Mixed Court and found them to be identical. He therefore had Ismos haled into court and charged with contempt and with maintaining litigation through violation of his bond.

Ismos pleaded yesterday that the charge made against Mrs. Zimmerman in the Chinese court was not the same as that previously made in the Mixed Court. In the first case, he said, he had alleged larceny of three documents. He has since discovered that four were missing. It was with regard to the fourth that he brought the later charge. The Court compared the documents and decided that the charges were the same in each case.

Chief Inspector Wheeler then told the court that the document submitted by Ismos and purporting to outline a new charge had been secured since Thursday and reminded the Court of Ismos' vindictive attitude when he first charged Mrs. Zimmerman and wished to have her and a young girl witness both thrown into jail. There was not the slightest doubt, he said, that the man's action in going to the Chinese court was solely for the purpose of railroading the two women to prison and it jeopardised the friendly relations between the two courts.

The Assessor and Magistrate held that Ismos was guilty of the charge through failure to abide by his bond and sentenced him to a month in jail.

KEARNY GUILTY IN ONE CASE; FREED IN ANOTHER; MUST PAY FINE OF $2500

Judge Lobingier In U. S. Court Hands Down Decision In Criminal Proceedings Arising Out Of Alleged Importation Of Arms From Russ Ships

Captain L. D. Kearny was found guilty of conspiracy in the importing of arms and ammunition into China from Russian refugee vessels at Gensan, Korea, and fined $2,500 with subsidiary imprisonment in Bilibid Prison if the fine is not paid, in a decision handed down in the United States Court for China by Judge Charles Sumner Lobingier yesterday afternoon.

He was acquitted of a similar charge involving the importation of arms from Russian vessels at Woosung last December as Judge Lobingier found that Admiral Tu, Commander-in-Chief of the Chinese Navy, assumed full responsibility for the importation and that Captain Kearny merely acted as his agent and adviser.

In the case involving the Hangchow transaction, Judge Lobingier found that Captain Kearny had no authority from Civil Governor Chang of Chekiang to purchase the arms and found him guilty. Mr. C. S. Franklin, Captain Kearny's attorney, immediately filed formal notice of a motion for a new trial in the case in which his client was convicted.

ENDS LONG CASE

The judgment brings to an end the most sensational of the arms cases being prosecuted by United States District Attorney Leonard G. Husar. The arrest of Captain Kearny was the forerunner of a series of cases brought against other Americans charged with similar offenses in connection with the same or other alleged importations.

In imposing a fine of $2,500 Judge Lobingier said he was moved by various circumstances in the case, principally that Captain Kearny had been prosecuted under treaty provisions that had laid dormant for nearly 80 years.

Captain Kearny, Mr. Franklin, Mr. Husar and a number of interested spectators were present in court when Judge Lobingier read his judgment—given in full below—in the case:

THE JUDGMENT

SYLLABUS

By the Court

1. Conspiracy is an offense only when its purpose is to commit some other offense.

2. ID.: The Overt Act required in order to complete the offense need not be wholly independent of the conspiracy.

3. ID.: Id.: Though several of such acts are alleged, only one need be proved.

4. ID.: Evidence found sufficient to bring one case, but not the other, within the treaty exception.

5. ID.: Penalty imposed with due regard for the alleged absence of criminal intent.

Leonard G. Husar, Esquire United States Attorney, for the prosecution.

Messrs. Williams, Franklin & Faison, for the defence.

"The informations in both of these cases charge a conspiracy to import arms into China in violation of treaties with the United States. With one exception those charged as co-conspirators with defendant are different in each case but the defense in each is the same, defendant seeking to bring himself within the clause (1) which excepts importations at the requisition of the Chinese Government, or for sale to Chinese duly authorised to purchase them." In Cause No. 2307 defendant relies mainly upon the following letter (Ex. B) which the prosecution now admits without reserve:

"ADMIRALTY HOUSE
Nanking, September 25, 1923
To the United States Consul,
Nanking, China.

Sir:

In receiving your kind letter dated this day, I have the honor to address you with regard to the case now pending in the United States Court for China in which it is alleged that Captain L. D. Kearny purchased certain arms and ammunition from Admiral Stark of the Russian Fleet last December and sold them to me. I shall be grateful if you will please be good enough to communicate the following information to your Consul-General in Shanghai and through him to the proper officers of your government.

During December, last year, a number of Russian gunboats, fully armed and with refugees on board, arrived at Woosung. The Admiralty was instructed to order them to leave Chinese waters within 24 hours. This they refused to do on the grounds that they had no food, coal or supplies. Thereupon the Admiralty deemed it necessary and expedient to disarm them in order to (1) prevent the arms and ammunition from falling into the hands of the

BY UNITED PRESS

Washington, Nov. 23.—The press throughout the country has come strongly to the support of the Administration in its stand regarding payment of French war debts, as announced yesterday. The Government takes the position that any attempts aimed at forcing France to pay up would prove both unavailing and embarrassing at this time and in this newspapers throughout the country seem to concur.

Statistics made public here show that the importation of German toys for the Christmas trade in America is larger this year than ever before and that payments for these shipments are being made in dollars and not in marks.

The Department of Commerce announced that imports of German gold during the first ten months of 1923 had been nearly $50,000,000 as compared with approximately $14,000 during the same period last year.

The Japanese Ambassador, Mr. Adatchi, in a brilliant speech, congratulated the mission.

U. S. AIR FORCES ARE INADEQUATE, CHIEF REPORTS

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Washington, Nov. 23.—Major General Patrick, chief of the Army Air Forces, in his annual report made public today declares that the American air forces are entirely inadequate.

General Patrick urges adoption of a general program which will bring the American aviation service up to a higher level. Among other measures which he deems necessary, General Patrick asks a substantial increase in personnel, reconstruction of aerodromes, replacement of obsolete machines and development of commercial aviation.

opponents of the Central Chinese Government or pirates or bandits, and (2) prevent them from falling into the hands of unauthorised provincial authorities who are at war with each other.

At that time, Captain L. D. Kearny was introduced to the Admiralty and, he being an old seafaring man, the Admiralty instructed him to assist, on the occasion of the disarming and or seizure of the Russian vessels, in order to facilitate the work. Captain Kearny was appointed temporary advisor to the Admiralty which position he held for three months. The arms and ammunition are now stored at Nanking and the matter was duly and officially reported to the Central Government.

After disarming the said vessels it was apprehended that the refugees, if not provided for, would land at Shanghai or elsewhere in China, causing anxiety and trouble to our Government. The Admiralty was therefore authorised to provide them with food, water, coal and or other supplies and necessary cash for their needs. When this was done, the vessels left Chinese waters. The Admiralty has had no further or other transactions with Captain Kearny.

The Admiralty deem it necessary to forward this statement and will instruct legal adviser to appear at the hearing of the case on behalf of the Admiralty.

Thanking you for your courtesy in transmitting this information, I have the honor to be, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

(Signed) H. K. Tu, (Seal)
Commander-in-Chief of the C.N.

"It seems clear that the author of this letter means to say that the arms and munitions involved in Cause No. 2307 were taken 'at the requisition of the Chinese Government.' But if we were to treat the other evidence as disclosing a sale rather than a seizure the result would still be the same. For the whole responsibility of the transaction is here assumed by the Commander-in-Chief of the Chinese Navy who says that it 'was duly and officially reported to the Chinese Government.' Under these circumstances we do not think it can be questioned that he was 'duly authorised' and that the transaction falls within the term of the exception above quoted.

"According to the letter, moreover, defendant's part in the affair was that of a 'temporary advisor to the Admiralty.' He was employed 'to assist' in a transaction initiated by the Chinese authorities and could not, therefore, be convicted of conspiracy in so doing. It was a permissible act and conspiracy is an offense only when its purpose is to commit some other offense." (24). The manner in which defendant rendered such assistance becomes therefore immaterial. So long as the transaction itself was not prohibited it matters not whether defendant's part therein was performed openly or secretly or whether his conduct was consistent or equivocal.

II

"In Cause No. 2317, where a conspiracy to import arms and munitions into China seems fully proved, by undisputed evidence, there is no such assumption of responsibility by any Chinese. On the contrary the principal one with whom it is charged a contract of sale of these contraband articles was effected, expressly denies any connection therewith. In a letter which defendant consented to receive in evidence with equal probatory value as that of Admiral Tu, the Civil Governor of Chekiang Province says:

"In March of the present year, the American citizen L. D. Kearney called at this office where he informed me verbally that there was at Pusan, Korea, a second-hand vessel for sale and volunteered to make a note thereto for the purpose of making an inspection and conducting negotiations. My conversation with L. D. Kearney on that date, being confined to the subject of purchase of ship, had absolutely nothing to do with any other question. Until the Russian vessel ELDORADO came to the water of Chekiang and until so informed I had no knowledge of the fact that there were between six and seven hundred Russian refugees on board. Prior to the arrival of this steamer, L. D. Kearney never talked over the matter with me and secured my consent. Nor was there received any written report. As I felt that Kearney's way of transacting business was improper, the matter of purchasing ship was dropped and telegraphic instructions were issued to the Marine Police to urge the said Russian vessel immediately to leave Chekiang province. Moreover, no appointment was made of L. D. Kearney as a representative of the Civil Governor or as a commander.

You are expected to transmit the reply to the American Consul-General."

"We find no competent evidence sufficient to contradict this statement. The name of Governor Chang is used rather freely by several witnesses and one of them quotes alleged expressions by him which might relate to this transaction. But Governor Chang is not charged as a co-conspirator therein and his extra-forensic declarations are consequently not competent evidence. Moreover it is not clear that the witness who relates them understood the original statements; for he says (p. 41) that there was a Chinese interpreter present who "did all the talking;" if the witness merely repeated what the interpreter said, his evidence is incompetent for that reason alone. Nor is it without significance that the witness in question wrote a letter (Ex. 1) from Hangchow, where this interview is said to have occurred, and on the same date, but no mention is made of any such declarations.

"On the other hand there is express testimony by the prosecution's witnesses that the money used for the purchase of these arms was not Governor Chang's (p. 25) and was not sent by him (p. 47). There is in fact no competent evidence of any negotiations or transactions between Governor Chang and the defendant other than that mentioned in the former's letter.

"It is urged that this conclusion leaves the prosecution's case without proof of the overt act necessary to complete the offense charged. But we think the evidence ample to show not only one but several overt acts in furtherance of the conspiracy. There is ok. testimony brought out partly by the defense, and uncontradicted of the payment of considerable sums of money—of $5,600.00 to Meyer (p. 79), who is charged as a co-conspirator in both causes, to Roth of a draft for $5,000.00 (p. 24.), to another of checks aggregating $1,900.00 (p. 27) and of lesser sums to Russian officers (pp. 97, 98), whose fare was also paid. It is also undisputed that the ship El Dorado carrying some 1,400 rifles and a considerable quantity of ammunition (pp. 96, 97, 110) was brought from Korea, in an unseaworthy condition, into Chinese waters in pursuance of the conspiracy. These are clearly overt acts and it is not essential that they be wholly independent of the conspiracy itself.

"It is true that these acts are not specifically charged in the information; but they were proved without objection and in part by evidence produced on defendant's behalf. We have found no case where a conviction of this offense upon such evidence was set aside because the overt act had not been sufficiently charged. Judge Morrow, now of our Court of Appeals in stating the rule said

"Under the statute of the United States now under consideration, the doing of some act in pursuance of a conspiracy is an ingredient of the crime, and must be established as a necessary element of the offense, although the act need not be in itself criminal or amount to a crime."

"If established by unchallenged evidence, a defect of statement in the information would seem to be cured.

"Nor can we agree with defendant's counsel that the information charges "only one overt act" in alleging that

"said defendant, on or about the aforesaid date, at the city of Hangchow, Republic of China, did agree, contract, covenant, bargain and trade with one Chang Tsai Wang and the agent and agents of said Chang Tsai Wang, for the sale and delivery to him of contraband articles of merchandise," etc.

"This averment seems broad enough to admit evidence of a contract not only with the one first named but also of another with his agent and of still others with other agents. Nor does the term "agent" seem more than descriptio personae. (6) It is well settled that only one overt act need be proved although others are alleged (7) and, by analogy, the averment of agency would seem to be surplusage. If, in fact, a contract was actually made with others than the one named in the information it would seem to be covered by this averment even without a showing of agency.

"Now there is abundant and undisputed evidence of negotiations and transactions between one or more of the conspirators and two Chinese named respectively Ma (pp. 21, 22, 24, 25, 37, 75, 76) and Hu (pp. 21, 22, 25, 27, 38, 42, 45, 94). Witness Roth, for the prosecution, says that the money for the purchase of the arms came from the former and witness Mayer testifying to an interview between the former and the defendant says:

Q. Was the conversation to the effect that Captain Kearny was offering to sell these arms to Mr. Ma?
A. It was.
Q. And all you remember was that Mr. Ma said he would make enquiries and let him know.
A. Yes.
Q. Were they to be sold to Ma individually or to the Civil Governor of Chekiang?
A. As far as I know, Mr. Ma was the only one at the moment whose name I heard mentioned." (pp. 75, 76).

"Hu, on the other hand is mentioned as the one who "brought down the money" (p. 37) according to the witness Roth who further says:

"I saw him when he arrived from Hangchow. He came dinging in the window with a suit case. He said 'I have arrived.' He had a suit case full of notes. I could not say how much it was, I did not count it.

Q. You saw all the bank notes in the suit case.
A. I saw quite sufficient. I did not see all. There were bundles of notes in the suit case." (p. 38).

"Surely these were overt acts within the purview of the charge last quoted from the information. And while we do not regard proof of agency as indispensable there is nevertheless undisputed evidence (pp. 21, 22) of a connection with the one first named: the not much as would bind him or show that others were acting in an official capacity or with the authority required by the exception to the treaty. No other defense than said exception being offered, we must find the evidence sufficient to convict in Cause No. 2317 though insufficient in Cause No. 2307.

"In imposing punishment for the former, we must consider on the one hand the gravity of the offense from the public standpoint and the menace to life and property in China from the illicit importation and consequent reckless distribution of arms and munitions. But on the arms hand we cannot overlook the fact that the prohibition now invoked exists only by treaty and has so existed for nearly eighty years without previous enforcement, so far as we are aware, by criminal prosecution. Defendant, it appears, moreover, was advised, both professionally and officially, that no such prohibition existed. Ignorance of the law does not, of course, excuse; but long disuse of a prohibition may serve to give color to such advice as defendant claims to have relied upon and may properly be considered in fixing the penalty as bearing on the element of intent. In view of the foregoing and of the wide publicity given these first prosecutions under the treaties, we are of the opinion that the deterrent effect of this sentence will be sufficient without subjecting defendant primarily to the extreme penalty and by imposing instead a substantial fine as permitted by the statute penalising conspiracy.

"The defendant is accordingly sentenced in Cause No. 2317 to pay a fine of twenty-five hundred dollars ($2,500.00) Mexican currency, with subsidiary imprisonment (in Bilibid Prison, Manila, Territory of the Philippines) according to law in case of non-payment, and the costs of prosecution in said cause."

ARMED ROBBERS ARE SENTENCED BY MIXED COURT

Five Go To Arsenal And Eight Draw Long Jail Terms

Thirteen out of seventeen men charged as members of an armed robber gang which has been operating in the Settlement for some months were sentenced by Assessor Martin and Magistrate Kwan of the Mixed Court last evening after a session lasting until after 7 p.m.

Five of the men were ordered turned over to the Defense Commissioner, which means that they will most probably be ordered shot for their crimes. One was sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment, five were imprisoned for 5 years and two were ordered to jail for three years. Two were discharged and two will be brought up later on other charges.

Chief credit for the rounding up of the gang, which has committed many robberies in the Settlement, is due to Chief Detective Inspector Cruickshank, who has probably apprehended and convicted more armed robbers than any other official in the force. Detective Sergeants Douglas and Macdonnel however gave good assistance in the present case.

The men sentenced to imprisonment will be expelled from the Settlement at the expiry of their terms.

Sun Hard Pressed For Lack Of Money: Cantonese Despair

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Nov. 23.—A foreign telegram from Canton says that Dr. Sun Yat-sen's officers are not nearly so confident of victory as they were a week ago. They now claim ability to hold out for a fortnight, adding that they have not lost confidence in the fighting qualities of the Constitutional troops who outnumber General Chen Chiung-ming's forces, but Dr. Sun Yat-sen has reached the end of his financial resources and does not know which way to turn for money. It has been hinted in Canton that the Customs funds are Dr. Sun's only hope but foreigners do not think that he will resort to that dangerous expedient.

THE MIXED COURT DECLARES WAR ON OPIUM DEALERS

Severe Punishment For Drug Traffickers Promised By Assessor

Warning to opium dealers that they will fare hardly in future when they appear in the Mixed Court was contained in a statement made yesterday by Assessor Whitamore in ruling against an application for reduction of sentence for an opium offender.

The application was made by Mr. K. E. Newman on behalf of a Chinese who was sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment Thursday for selling opium at 726 Dixwell Road. Mr. Newman said that his client was the son of a pawn broker and that he had merely thought to make a little money during his father's absence by engaging in a very small opium transaction. Counsel thought that it would be fairer if the court would give some intimation that it intended to impose sentences of imprisonment without the option of a fine. He asked that his client's sentence be communted to a fine.

Chief Inspector Wheeler stated to the Court that the police had not been informed of the application and that they would in all probability wish to oppose it.

Assessor Whitamore replied that it would not be necessary to notify the police for he did not intend to entertain the application. He then told Mr. Newman that under the provisions of the Chinese Provisional Criminal Code no offense in the opium category could be met merely with a fine, except in the case of poppy growing and of possession of opium pipes and smoking paraphernalia. If fines had been imposed otherwise in the past it was owing to leniency on the part of the Court. The Criminal Code prescribed imprisonment or imprisonment with the addition of a fine.

The Court had shown great leniency in the past, the Assessor said, in imposing fines in cases where opium dealing was charged but there was not the slightest necessity for the Court to inform these offenders that in future such leniency would cease. He took this opportunity to inform Mr. Newman that this matter had been considered by the Assessors and Magistrates and in future the punishment for opium traffickers would be far more severe than it had been in the past. The application for commutation of the sentence in this case would be refused.

REFUSE RUSSIAN COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE

P. S. Nahaboff Also Loses Dollars Forty Deposit

P. S. Nahaboff, Russian who attained notoriety several years ago by filing suit here for half a million dollars against Ataman Semenoff and who has been in court in the role of defendant on a number of occasions since that time, appeared again in the Mixed Court before Assessor Ivanoff and Magistrate Tsang yesterday.

Nahaboff was tried in the Mixed Court last August and sentenced to three months' imprisonment for defrauding a Chinese. On September 5 he was turned over to the Chinese authorities to face trial in another case and was sentenced to eight months' imprisonment by the Chinese Court. He obtained commutation of 210 days of this latter sentence by payment at the rate of $1 a day for the time to be served and was returned to the Mixed Court on November 19. He made application for Commutation of the previous sentence along similar lines and paid into court the sum of $40, stating that his daughter would pay in a further $22.

Yesterday Mr. Maitland, police prosecuter, strongly opposed Nahaboff's application, stating that the accused had made no effort to repay the complainant in the case, though he was given three days to do so.

The Court refused the application and ordered the $40 handed over to the complainant.

HOUSE OF BISHOPS REFUSES ROOTS' RESIGNATION

Hankow Bishop Expected To Join National Christian Council

The House of Bishops of the Episcopal Church in session at Dallas, Texas, has refused to accept the resignation of Bishop L. H. Roots of the American Protestant Episcopal Church Mission with headquarters in Hankow, according to information just received here by cable. Decision on Bishop Roots' request to be allowed to resign was made on November 14.

Bishop Roots, who is to be the speaker at the Thanksgiving Day services to be held by the American community in Holy Trinity Cathedral on November 29, will arrive from Hankow today.

Bishop Roots resigned in order to accept the invitation of the National Christian Council to become one of its full time officers and devote all of his time and energy to that work. His resignation had the approval of the standing committee which acts for the General Synod of the Chinese Episcopal Church during the intervals between its triennial meetings.

GILMAN NAMED

Because of that approval the House of Bishops in China nominated the Rev. Alfred A. Gilman as his successor last April.

The refusal of the House of Bishops to allow Bishop Roots to resign has caused considerable surprise to Episcopal authorities here as they proceeded only after they thought they had secured the approval of the American church heads.

Good Boxing Card Tonight At Town Hall; Two Scraps Will Be For City Titles

Amateur Championship In Light And Featherweight Classes To Be Decided; Program Is Farewell To Parkes

Judging by the "line-up" announced for tonight's boxing show at the Town Hall, which is to be in the nature of a farewell for Prof. G. H. Parkes, boxing instructor in Public School for boys, right fans will see some very lively milling.

Two of the bouts will be for championship titles. Carlson, one of the best boys developed by Mr. Parkes, will tangle with Stoker Curtis, of the Hawkins, for the amateur lightweight championship of Shanghai. The other title bout will be between J. Johnasson and Ordinary Seaman Castle for the featherweight championship of Shanghai. Johnasson has shown well in all his bouts here and is a fast, skillful scrapper who is quite to make things hot for the sailor. The other bouts include matches between Benny Herzberg and Boy Leach; A. Jesu and Stoker Lee; "W" and Stoker Curtis, and a four round exhibition between Knute Hansen and Matty Smith, his manager and sparring partner.

This, it can be seen, is quite a promising aggregation of talent and Mr. Parkes certainly is to be congratulated upon getting so many good bouts arranged.

All the boys named above will enter the ring in tip top condition, as they have been training hard and faithfully for these bouts. The two battles for Shanghai championship honors are sure to be fast and furious.

Mr. Parkes, who has been in Shanghai for a number of years, is leaving for home shortly for an extended vacation, and the bouts tonight are by way of giving him a good send-off. All the boxing fans in Shanghai ought to turn out for the show.

MRS. BURTON WINS GOLF TITLE, 15-13

Newcomer Plays Kiangwan In 76, Defeats Mrs. Enticknap

Mrs. T. Burton, a comparative newcomer to Shanghai, won the Ladies Open Golf championship at Kiangwan yesterday in a manner that stamps her as one of the best exponents of the links game in the Far East, regardless of sex. Her margin of victory over Mrs. Enticknap, the other finalist, was 15 and 13, but that is not the real measure of her amazing skill. To get a true line on this remarkable player's ability it need only be said that she negotiated the Kiangwan course in 76 strokes. This astonishing score was made, of course, from the ladies' tees, but that is no particular advantage at Kiangwan, where on most of the holes the women shoot from tees that are but little forward of the men's tees, and from the same tees on some of the holes.

Mrs. Burton made but one mistake on her entire first round, a duffed approach on the thirteenth finding the bunker. Outside of that one miss she was absolutely deadly—straight on her drives, accurate on approaches, and down in never more than two put's.

Mrs. Enticknap played a good game herself, figuring from previous standards in ladies' championship matches, but against the brand of golf flashed by Mrs. Burton she was helpless. On hole after hole she got her Bogey, only to see Mrs. Burton finish with par. The latter's card reveals that on 12 of the 18 holes she turned in par figures—truly a remarkable showing. Her card follows:

Par out 4 4 4 3 5 3 4 4 3—34
Mrs. Burton out 4 5 5 4 5 3 4 4 3—37
Par in 4 3 4 5 5 3 4 3 5—36—70
Mrs. Burton in 4 3 4 6 6 3 4 3 6—39—76

Figured from the Bogey stand point it will be seen that Mrs. Burton was all square with the Colonel all the way to the eighteenth hole, where she took one over. On the first nine she was one over Bogey on one hole, the third, where she took a 5; but she had one to spare before playing that hole, having made a 4 on the first, against a Bogey 5.

On the return journey she was all square with the Colonel until she reached the thirteenth, where she found her only trouble. Then followed two more Bogey holes and then one under, making her all square again. On the long eighteenth she took a six against a Bogey 5, thus enabling the Colonel to get the better of the match by the skin of his teeth. Her card compared to Bogey follows.

Bogey, out 5 5 4 4 5 3 4 4 3—37
Mrs. Burton, out 4 5 5 4 5 3 4 4 3—37
Bogey, in 4 3 4 5 6 3 5 3 5—38—75
Mrs. Burton, in 4 3 4 6 6 3 4 3 6—39—76

First Paper Hunt Of Season Today

The first Paper Hunt of the season will be run today starting at the corner of Warren and Hungjao Roads at three in the afternoon. Tremendous keenness is being evinced this season and large fields are sure to turn out. The going promises to be splendid today although in one or two places the country is still on the blind side. In such places it is up to the riders to take care of themselves.

The Master specially requests that after passing the finishing flags riders will pull out of the fairway to one side or the other before dismounting. The reason for this is very obvious. Also riders should warn their mafoos beforehand that they must keep well back from the line of finish and not crowd in as is their custom making a funnel of unwashed humanity for riders to dismount in.

Imperial Institute Is Doomed, Belief

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 23.—Virtual disappearance of the Imperial Institute is foreshadowed in the report of the committee enquiring into its future status in view of the withdrawal of overseas contributions. The committee recommends that most of its functions should be transferred to other agencies, the Institute being continued only as a clearing-house for intelligence and information and merged with the Mineral Resources Bureau.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 23.—The recommendations of the committee of inquiry into the future status of the Imperial Institute were adopted by the Imperial Economic Conference. It appears that Britain's contribution for the upkeep of the reconstituted Institute will be £9,000 yearly for five years, the Governments of the Dominions, India and the Colonies contributing together £8,000.

Coroner Finds Victims Met Accidental' Deaths

Verdicts of accidental deaths were returned at the inquest held before Magistrate G. W. King, sitting as Coroner, in the British Police Court yesterday, over the three British engineers —Mr. John Edmund Wilson of 39 Pingliang Road, Mr. Thomas Moodie of 5 Ward Road, and Mr. C. W. Donaldson—who met their deaths in the Riverside power station explosion last week.

Dr. James Edward Murray, who made the post-mortem examination on the bodies, was the first witness called. He stated that both Moodie and Wilson must have met with instant death. Mr. Donaldson was alive when picked up, but there could have been no chance of his surviving.

Mr. T. H. U. Aldridge, Chief Engineer and Manager of the Municipal Electricity Department, said the accident occurred to a 20,000 K. W. Parsons Turbine. It had been ordered by the Council, but had not then been taken over by them he said. It was still under Mr. Donaldson's care, and was being submitted by him to a balancing test at the time. The turbine was erected on a 22 ft. high concrete base, running round which was a platform with iron railings. It was from this platform the people looking after the turbine stood to direct operations.

ALDRIDGE TESTIFIES

Mr. Aldridge said he went to the scene five minutes after the accident. He saw the deceased lying on the ground. The turbine was a total wreck, the cylinder was blown to pieces, and the rotor had been sheered in three places. The effect of the burst blew the pieces east, north, and west, but not to the south, where, quite close to the ruined turbine was another and similar turbine. This last was quite undamaged, and had not been struck. There could have been no air concussion at the time of the burst, and anyone killed must have met their death by being actually struck by flying wreckage. He believed Mr. Donaldson was taking the speed of the engine when he was killed.

Mr. E. A. Mills, Executive Engineer, of the Riverside Power Station, gave evidence as to the turbine having been worked for one period of seven days without a stop before the accident. Mr. Donaldson was assisted by a number of Chinese fitters, one of whom was killed. The other three Chinese killed were painters. A log was kept of all events at the Power Station, but no entry of the starting of the machine on the last occasion was made, since any such entry would have to be made by either Donaldson or Moodie.

Charles Foo-sun, one of the fitters present at the accident and working on the burst turbine, also gave evidence. He said he was standing close to Mr. Moodie. Two other Chinese, one of whom was also killed, were standing nearly. Messrs. Wilson and Moodie only came on the scene for five minutes before the burst. The machine had been running for about ten minutes.

Just before the accident, he said, Mr. Donaldson told him to oil the valves and he was doing that when the explosion occurred. He was blown from his place and a cylinder cover fell over him, shielding him from the debris on all sides. As soon as he wriggled away he went to the boiler room and had the steam shut off. He was then taken to the hospital.

Government To Aid Insurance Firms In Quake Settlements

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Nov. 22.—At today's cabinet meeting, the Government decided upon the general principles for the solution of the fire-insurance question. The gist of the general principles is that in order to permit the fire insurance companies concerned to pay to the insured ten percent of the amount insured, the government will accommodate a loan to these companies out of the national treasury and that with regard to the repayment of the loan, the companies are to organise a syndicate so that they may be held conjointly responsible for the repayment of their debt.

Japanese Cabinet To Approve Plans For Reconstruction

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Nov. 22.—Approval having already been obtained from the council of the reconstruction board regarding the draft proposal tendered by the board as to the rebuilding of Tokio and Yokohama, cabinet meeting was held today, as a result of which it has been decided to approve on the whole of the draft proposal. According to this scheme, the reconstruction work is to be continued for seven years including the present fiscal year, at the total cost of Yen 702,977,000. Besides the above estimates, Tokio and Yokohama cities have, it is reported, decided to raise funds required for the execution of their respective reconstruction plans to the amount of Yen 173,255,000.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Nov. 23.—The Finance Department has decided to have recourse to a public loan to meet the estimates for the reconstruction of Tokio and Yokohama. It is reported that with the exception of the fund requisite for the importation of commodities from foreign countries, the projected public loan will be floated at home.

U. S. IN THROES OF CRAZE FOR REJUVENATION

Tens Of Thousands Undergo Goat Gland Operation British Paper Says

London, Nov. 21.—England is beginning to imagine the United States as a land of goats. It's all because of the weird stories printed here about the sudden craze of Americans for rejuvenation through goat glands.

Tens of thousands of Americans can boast of goat glands sewn up their anatomy, says Sir Edward Hulton's "Empire News"—and serious-minded English people believe the "Empire News."

"Goat farms are springing up with mushroom rapidity," continues this paper "from Maine to Texas and from Narragansett to Oregon. Their growth so far exceeds the monkey farms of France that if Americans are not turned into goats before the French are turned into monkeys it will not be the fault of Dr. Brinkley, of Kansas, who has set the pace even for Voronoff."

PLAN FOR RAIL GUARD BUREAU NOW COMPLETE

Generals Wu And Wang Will Each Furnish Brigade Of Troops

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peping, Nov. 23.—It is announced that a working arrangement has been reached by the Peking authorities and General Tang Tsai-li regarding the Railway Protection Bureau, of which he is the director. It has now been decided that the Chiaotungpu shall control the guards as far as their disposition and sundry other details are concerned. General Wu Pei-fu has agreed to furnish one brigade of troops as additional guards, who will be stationed along the Peking-Hankow Railway, while General Wang Chan-ping will furnish a brigade for the Tientsin-Pukow Railway. General Tang Tsai-li will command the whole body, subject to the reservations mentioned, and will report direct to the Cabinet. The arrangement is said to be satisfactory, but there seems a possibility of friction in this divided command. The delay, however, seems to have been overcome and there is a prospect of General Tang Tsai-li proceeding with his task.

NANKING SCHOOL DOES GOOD WORK IMPROVING COTTON

Three New Varieties Developed, Two Others Acclimatised

During the past two years University of Nanking cotton experts have succeeded in acclimatising two varieties of American cotton—Trice and Acala—and have developed three excellent strains of Chinese cotton, according to the annual report of the College of Agriculture and Forestry of the school.

The acclimatisation and development work was done by the Department of Cotton Improvement with finances advanced by the Cottom Mill Owner's Association and the Shanghai Cotton Anti-Adulteration Association under the direction of Mr. John B. Griffing, a noted American cotton authority.

In carrying out the work over 12,500 foreign plants and over 40,000 Chinese plants have been subjected to careful selection and laboratory study. The best plants were then grown in the fields and the improved strains furnished the seed for the next year's plant study. Over three and a half tons of pure seed was distributed to farmers and cotton stations for further experimentation last year. And this year's crop is expected to produce about 25 tons of pure seed.

During the three years special instruction in Cotton has been given to one hundred and seventy-one students, assistants and foremen. Extension campaigns with fairs, exhibits, plays, etc., with seed distribution have been promoted in eleven different centers. A large number of small experiment stations and demonstration areas have been maintained. Besides magazine and press articles, four bulletins have been published in English with a total of forty-nine pages and 9,800 copies. In Chinese there have been eleven publications with a total of 106 pages and 25,600 copies.

Labor saving machinery, very essential even in China for the cultivation of cotton has been designed and manufactured including five and seven tooth adjustable cultivators and a shovel plow adapted to Chinese use and within their ability to pay. A saw gin adjusted to small seeded Chinese cotton has been made and successfully used, as has also, a hand baling press. Considerable progress has been made on an irrigation pump for use in North China, where with favorable soil and climate successful cotton cultivation is uncertain on account of lack of water though it can be secured from small wells sunk from ten to fifteen feet.

During the course of the work much scientific data on the behavior of cotton plants undergoing acclimatisation was secured and is being published.

Red Cross Drive Nets 925 New Memberships

Mrs. Gardner Crane, Chairman of the Membership Drive of the American Red Cross, announces that 925 memberships have been received as a result of the three days' intensive campaign which closed Thursday, as against 583, the highest number previously registered. Mr. Maurice Benjamin's was the one Life Member's subscription and Supporting Memberships were received from Mrs. Henry Cooper, Miss Gertrude Owen, Mr. W. Fred Gerrick, and an English gentleman who would not give his name. The American Milk Products Co., the Standard Oil Co., and the Asia Banking Corporation contributed generously.

Mrs. Crane wishes to express her cordial thanks to all who shared in the success of this Drive which was put through by the American Woman's Club, to all the organisations who allowed booths to be put up on their premises, to anonymous British donors, to the campaign secretary, Mrs. Giovannini for her untiring and efficient service and to those ladies who so generously assisted her in the work.

Japanese Bandit Captives To Be Set Free Soon

(Independent News Service)

Hankow, Nov. 20.—The two Japanese officers of the Iyang Maru who have been held by the Szechuenese troops are now located at Chekiang, Szechuen, where the captors will shortly escort the prisoners to the headquarters of the Szechuenese Army at Chungking. Chungking is the nearest place where there is a Japanese Consul, to whom the prisoners will be handed. It is reliably reported that the two Japanese will be set free unconditionally, all previous demands having been withdrawn.

PRES. LINCOLN AND SHINYO LEAVE TODAY

Two trans-Pacific liners are leaving Shanghai for the States today. The President Lincoln, which docked at the China Merchants' Central Wharf yesterday, will sail for San Francisco via Japan ports and Honolulu at 9.30 o'clock this morning, and mail closes at 7.30.

The Shinyo Maru which was to have left Woosung for San Francisco last night, has been delayed and will now leave tonight. The vessel arrives at Woosung at daybreak today, and the tender with incoming passengers from the ship is expected at the Customs jetty about 9:30 am. The dispatch tender with passengers and baggage for Woosung will leave at 5 o'clock this evening, and mail to go on this boat closes at 3 p.m.

The next mail for Europe will be dispatched on the P. and steamer Kalyan next Tuesday, and the Blue Funnel liner Machaon on Thursday morning.

Bringing mail from the States, the President Jackson is expected to arrive in Shanghai from Seattle next Tuesday, and the President Taft arrives from San Francisco via Honolulu as well as Japan ports one day later. The Jackson, usually carries a heavy mail from the States, should leave Kobe tomorrow, and the Taft is due to leave that port on Monday.

Always Something New On Brunswick Record

The perfect interpretations of classical and popular music by Brunswick phonographs and records is the talk of the musical world.

Highest musical authorities say Brunswick Records are ten years ahead of their time. Great musicians recognise this fact and the new artists of this generation have turned to Brunswick to immortalise their art.

Brunswick Phonographs enjoy the same leadership. The clearness, beauty of interpretation and tonal volume it reproduces is not equalled by any other make of phonograph.

Spot bar silver was down ⅜d. and forward ⅛d. in London yesterday. The New York price declined to 64¼ cents and the London-New York cross rate to 438.

Our market here in the early part of the morning was steady and became firm in the course of the day.

The lowest rates at which business in Sterling was done were 3s. 3⅝d. November, 3s. 2⅞d. December and 3s. 2½d January. The lowest rates for Gold Dollars were 72 November, 71 December and 70⅝ January.

There were, however, always good sellers at these rates and in the afternoon the market became very strong indeed, particularly for near delivery.

At the close there were sellers of Sterling at 3s. 3d. November delivery, 3s. 3⅛d. December and 3s. 2⅝d. January.

There were sellers of Gold Dollars at 72⅝ November, 71½ December and 71 January. There were sellers of Yen at 66½ November, 67½ December and 68 January.

Banks were quoting 3s. 4⅛d. and 74¼ for Sterling and Gold Dollar bills for near delivery.

For delivery after China New Year bills could have been placed at 3s. 3d. and 71⅝. There were buyers of Franc bills at 1360 for November-December delivery and 1350 for January.

China sold silver in London yesterday and the market is reported as closing steady. New York report their market as firm for near delivery.

Cotton Reports

In their weekly report on the Shanghai Cotton market, Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son write as follows.

China Cotton:—The market has been active during the past week, showing a further advance of about one tael for forward positions, whilst spot cotton shows very steady, due to the tightness of money market. It is clearly evident at present that sentiment has become more divided and the active manipulation brought into play at times to depress prices, seem to indicate that opposition on the part of up-country holders has been aroused on the bull side and support required to bear the market has shown an absence of any natural weakness. In summing up the situation, we stil conetnd that in looking at the question of supply and demand, the market points to a higher level of prices, and the near future hinges on the development in Mid-Americans and Indian cotton coupled with attitude of up-country holders.

Under the circumstances, we see no reason to change our views and believe that chances for successful operations still lie on the bull side. So that if any temporary weakness should develop in the speculative markets, we could only advise our friends to take advantage of such moments to buy.

Yarn:—Since our last report, our market has been keeping steady, prices ruling the same as compared with last week's level. Some 3-4,000 bales of various counts and chops of local products have changed hands between dealers for exports, and about 500 bales direct business with the Mills have been recorded.

SPUNT'S REPORT

Messrs. J. Spunt and Company write as follows in their weekly report on the cotton market:

China Cotton.—Our market may be said to have been steady in the prices for spot deliveries were maintaind on the same level as that prevailing during the previous period, but the rates for future deliveries ruled higher by about Tls. 1.00 per picul, being sustained by the advances in both Mid-Americans and Indians which two factors as the season progresses, will continue to infuse strength in the China Cotton markets, there being, from persent indications, no relief to be hoped for from these two sources of supply during the entire 1923-24 season. Furthermore the fact o fthere being very little increases in the receipts from th Interior of the better grades of cotton, at this early stage of the season, and particularly so at a time when the current financial stringency shows but little relaxation, only serves to indicae that this year's domestic yield is not as large as that of the 1922-23 season and will be more acutely felt by the trade in the Spring. Viewing the world's raw cotton situation from the present standpoint, we recommend buying on any and every slight reaction. Tone of the Market: Firm.

Samuel B. Fair Fined G$20 For Beating Wife

Samuel B. Fair was fined G.$20 and costs and given a severe lecture when he appeared before United States Commissioner Nelson E. Lurton yesterday charged with being drunk and disorderly and beating his wife.

Fair, his wife and their five children have been living with Fair's mother on Yalu Road, according to the testimony, but quarreled and Mrs. Fair decided to go and live with her brother. Fair objected, but after a heart-to-heart talk with Commissioner Lurton on Thursday, promised that he would allow Mrs. Fair to remove her things and not interfere with her in any way.

Within ten minutes after he left Commissioner Lurton, it was testified, he appeared at home, quarreled with his wife, and struck her and pulled her hair when she attempted to leave the house. After the fine and warning Fair promised once more not to molest Mrs. Fair in any way. He was returned to his cell while his mother, who was in court, went out to raise his fine.

Hamstringing The Giant

ACCORDING to latest estimates Shanghai with a population considerably in excess of two millions, probably has the largest population of any city in the Far East. Tokio before the earthquake had a population of about two and a quarter millions, but the population of that city has dropped off since the disaster until it now probably has no more than a million and a half. This leaves Shanghai including the International and French settlements and the native cities surrounding in the premier position. A prominent foreigner who has been in close touch with the development of Shanghai from the standpoint of building construction and road improvement, recently stated his opinion that Shanghai in less than a quarter of a century would overtake New York and London.

This information is of importance because it necessitates the adoption of far sighted ideas in city planning in order to take care of the housing and feeding and welfare of the large population which is gathered here and which is increasing so rapidly from year to year. It necessitates the correction of abuses which at present exist which are cramping the growth of the city, and the feeding of its population as well as the adoption of plans for the future. It necessitates the broadening of streets and the adoption of modern regulations for the control of traffic—and it necessitates improvements of the waterways connecting the city with its hinterland and the waterways connecting the city with the commerce of the Pacific.

The most important problem now facing Shanghai outside of the general matter of harbor improvement is that of Soochow Creek or the "Woosung Kiang" as the Chinese call the lower end of that troublesome stream. As was pointed out in these columns last week this important stream has so silted up in recent years that it has ceased to be the important waterway it once was and now amounts at low tide to little more than a trickle of muddy water meandering through a congestion of native craft stuck in the mud. The casual observer will note at almost any point from the Garden Bridge to the outskirts of the city that many of the boats held up here because of insufficient water are loaded with food products destined either for the Shanghai market or food products from Shanghai destined for up country. The fact that these boats are held up for long periods means just one thing and that is an increase in the cost of the food transported and this affects every man, woman and child—foreigner and Chinese—in this district.

Everybody recognises the importance of dredging and improving Soochow Creek but nothing can be done to restore the stream to its former status because the matter of its improvement is involved in red tape all having as its foundation that indefinite thing called the sovereign rights of China. Soochow Creek although flowing through the foreign settlement is under the jurisdiction of the provincial authorities of Kiangsu. The provincial authorities recognise the importance of improving the waterway but apparently do not have the money to do it. The foreign settlement either has the money or has means of getting it but can do nothing because the Chinese authorities will not permit the foreigners to do the work and there it stands, both sides suffering but helpless.

Owing to the importance of this matter to the foreign and Chinese public here it may be of interest to summarise briefly the status of the deadlock in order that pressure may be brought to bear to the end that something may be done. We have a feeling that when the public gets the facts something may be done to force action. In October, 1918, the Shanghai Harbor Master memorialised the Whangpoo Conservancy Board as to the bad condition of Soochow Creek. On January 22, 1919, we understand that the Whangpoo Conservancy Board circulated to local bodies interested the engineer-in-chief's "Preliminary Project" and invited the criticism of the Chinese Commissioner of Foreign Affairs and offered to co-operate in any attempt at improvement. In April, 1919, the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs notified the Whangpoo Conservancy Board that the native Kiangnan Conservancy Bureau had been instructed to dredge the creek and requested the Board to cancel its project. In September, 1919, the Kiangnan Conservancy Bureau started work near I Cheng road.

In November, the Whangpoo Consultative Board referred the question to the Consular Committee, and in December of the same year the Consular committee after investigation expressed dissatisfaction with the qualifications of the native Kiangnan Conservancy Bureau properly to do the work. From 1920 to 1922 the native Kiangnan Conservancy Bureau carried on dredging above Sinza Road, but made no attempt to improve the vital lower part of the creek. The money for the work done was raised by assessing the Rice Guild and other native guilds using the waterway.

In January, 1923, the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce took up the matter and was, we understand, informed by the Whangpoo Conservancy Board that the latter was willing to dredge the creek, working purely as a contractor, and would even consider voting a sum of money for the work. In September, 1923, according to report the Chinese Commissioner of Foreign Affairs presented to the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, a draft of a contract prepared between the Kiangnan Conservancy Bureau and the Whangpoo Board and stated that he believed the Whangpoo Board would generously allocate money for this work, the money being derived from the shenko of the Whangpoo foreshore. (Shenko is the money derived from the sale of reclaimed lands along the shores of the Whangpoo). The collection of shenko is the legal duty of the Whangpoo Conservancy Board under Article 12 of the Conservancy Agreement, but the Board's functions in this respect have always been a matter of jealousy on the part of the local Chinese bodies. During October and the present month of this year there has been a continuous discussion of the above matters in the Chinese press of this district.

This brings the history of the deadlock down to the present and leaves the all-important matter of improving Soochow Creek just where it was five years ago. Obviously this can't continue. The Chinese and foreign publics here will not continuously stand for an interference with their legitimate rights and with the development of the city. Other elements in this important matter will receive further attention in these columns.

Wanted a Traffic Court

THE diversity of punishments meted out in the various Consular Courts for infringements of the traffic by-laws arouses not a little comment in Shanghai. British offenders who are unfortunate enough not to be able successfully to defend themselves on summonses issued against them by the police complain that defendants convicted in the American Consular Court are let off many times with a warning and an assessment of costs, while the American motor driver unfortunate enough to come before the Commissioner, complains that the costs he pays are much in excess of the total amount paid out by the Briton in fine and costs.

If we remember rightly, this was a point which the former American Commissioner had in view when he frequently fined a defendant, making no order as to costs. But we understand the present U. S. Commissioner to take a different view to the effect that the least he can do is to assess a guilty defendant the Court's costs in the matter. The result is that unsuccessful defendants in the American Court have to pay more in purgation of their offenses than similar culprits in the British Court. This seems to be true also in other instances where different tribunals take an entirely different view of the matter of traffic offenses, with the result that there are as many different standards of punishment for such minor offenses as there are Consular Courts in Shanghai.

It is neither our intention, nor part of our duty to endeavor to ascertain exactly what steps the various Consular Courts could or should take to bring about some common standard of punishment in the traffic cases brought before them. The laws of their own countries probably show just as much variation as to the interpretations placed on our municipal bye-laws by the various local Courts. And it is not for us to say whether any of them are wrong.

But there is undoubtedly a strong feeling amongst motorists that some of their number receive better treatment than others do in other courts, and the lack of equity thus shown is more than a little exasperating to the more regular customers who frequent the various tribunals.

It has been suggested that the time is ripe for the institution of a Municipal Traffic Court before which offenders, irrespective of nationality could be haled and punished according to well-conceived standards, thereby preserving some degree of equity in the fines imposed. That such a Court would prove an inestimable boon to Shanghai cannot be doubted for a moment. The Mixed Court, busy as it always is, had to set aside a certain time each week solely for the purpose of disposing of traffic complaints, while the number which come before the Consular Courts is sufficient to justify the belief that such an institution as that suggested would have enough to do to justify its existence.

Fair-sounding as this suggestion appears to be, it is evident after the most superficial examination of the constitution of Shanghai that without the complete agreement of the Consular Body and an undertaking between the various consulates to see that the findings of such a Court would be enforced against their respective nationals, such an institution would speedily become inoperative as against the foreigner. That would seem to be a sufficient argument against any such proposal. Then the opponents of the scheme argue that a Municipal Traffic Court need not go so far as to inflict monetary fines or imprisonment—that the conditions under which motor car licenses are granted afford every necessary means of punishing recalcitrant motorists. Certainly it would seem that confiscation, or suspension of motor car licenses or drivers permits would give such a court sufficient means of punishment, but again we doubt whether decisions along those lines by such a Court would stand very long. For it is open to question whether any attempt to evade the restrictions imposed upon us municipally speaking, by our various constitutions would receive much countenance from the foreign courts, even if the Consuls themselves agreed that a traffic Court could be established. There does not, then appear to be much prospect of those favoring such a departure seeing their hopes fulfilled. But it is to be hoped that the various authorities will some day see eye to eye in the punishments inflicted in their various Courts for similar offenses and establish some standard of punishment which will ensure similarity in the treatment of offenders, no matter in which Court they are prosecuted.

Editorial Comments

The enormous task facing Japan in the reconstruction period can only be realised by an examination of the statistics of trade for the ten months of this year. The aggregate exports are valued at nearly 1118 million yen and the imports at 1,650½ million yen, or 532½ million yen in favor of imports. This adverse balance will certainly be increased in the last two months of this year by some 30 million yen. Taking the balance in her favor with the Japanese possession Japan's adverse balance at the end of this year will probably exceed 560 million yen.

Of course, against this we must take into consideration the amount that Japan will derive as interest on her investments abroad, interest from foreign issues, premiums and freight and profits on sugar. The position, nevertheless, must continue to be an anxious one for economists in that country. It calls for careful steering on the part of both the Government and the exchange banks in Japan. Failing that, there may result a crisis in Japan's exchange next year. The situation needs very careful handling, and it is hoped that the banks and the Government will cooperate to tide over the difficulty. It is stated that Japan's specie abroad has been released to the extent of some 100 million yen already, and that by the end of this year a further 30 million yen will have to go. The position is therefore, not roseate, but with careful study of the position and greater co-operation the solution should be found.

Such Is Fame

BY DR. CHARLES FLEISCHER

If you think you are a great success, because you earn—or get—a big salary or because your name, for the moment, is much in the mouths of men, please consider what happened the other day to Henry James.

His brother, William, was a leading psychologist and philosopher, Henry being one of the most brilliant literary figures of the last generation.

Shortly before that, there were two other James brothers Frank and Jesse—Western desperadoes whose exploits make the sneaky performance of a city gunman look amateurish and silly.

A questionnaire, a la Edison was tried last week on the University of Maine freshman class.

Out of 350 first year students, sixty-five said that Henry James was a bandit!

The ghost of the "famous" Victorian novelist groaned in his grave: "Oh, —— what's the use! Now I know I am dead."

Other departed worthies can sympathise with the once well-known writer.

For instance, Martin Luther was forced by one of these students to accept the parentage of Moses.

At least a prophecy of the coming friendliness of Judaism and Christianity!

Another made William Shakespeare the author of "Vanity Fair." If Shakespeare wrote a novel 200 years after his death, perhaps he could be induced to provide an occasional new play for Broadway.

And Disraeli was a poet! Perhaps he was, since he had the vision of a British Empire on whose flag the sun never sets.

And Moses was a Roman ruler! etc., etc.

Such is fame! It is enough to tempt even a newspaper man to try the medicine of modesty—in homeopathic doses.

Wireless Direction-Finding :-: Averts Wrecks :-:

Canada was among the first countries to foresee the great possibilities of the direction-finding stations and to introduce them as an aid to navigation, we are told by a writer in The Nautical Gazette (New York). The Dominion began the erection of these stations over five years ago. Their use was looked upon by some navigators with doubt, and even with disfavor, for it was difficult to convince mariners of the old school that radio could establish the position of a vessel at sea far more accurately than any other method known to science. To quote from the paper just named:

"In time of fog, when the ocean lanes are obscured in haze, and astronomical and other observations are unavailable, and dead reckoning with its uncertainties would otherwise have to be resorted to for the ascertainment of a ship's position, direction-finding supplies the missing link, enabling all ships' masters to determine their location with accuracy. Today the keenest advocates of direction-finding stations are those who at the outset of the stations were ready to condemn them. Numerous appreciative comments have been received regarding the valuable service rendered ships at sea by the direction-finding bearings furnished by the Dominion Government without the payment of any fee or toll. A unique example of such assistance is mentioned in the current issue of The Canadian Railway and Marine World: While off the Newfoundland coast, eastbound, on November 24, 1919, a steamship encountered dense fog. In order to check the ship's position the master obtained a bearing from the Cape Race direction-finding station, which put the ship 20 miles out of position by dead reckoning and soundings. Knowing full well the dangers of the Newfoundland coast, the master proceeded with great caution, and after the lapse of a suitable period, obtained another bearing from Cape Race.

"This confirmed the previous information and showed the ship still setting to the northward and headed for the eastern shore of Cape Pine. The captain thereupon turned his ship southward and an hour and a quarter later he picked up Cape Pine fog whistle. After verifying his new position by a further bearing he forwarded the following message to Cape Race direction-finding station: 'Your bearings have proved very accurate. Ship had set 21 miles to northward since yesterday noon. Can now hear Cape Pine fog whistle.'

"An example of the disasters that might have been averted had the direction-finding stations been more fully relied upon is the case of a passenger steamship of 9,000 tons gross, bound from Boston to Liverpool via Halifax, with 65 passengers and a crew of 115 men. On March 1, 1920, at 2 a.m., this ship was approaching Halifax in foggy weather and the captain obtained a bearing from Chebucto Head direction-finding station at the entrance to Halifax Harbor. The bearing thus obtained placed the ship between five and six miles nearer shore than the position as disclosed by dead reckoning.

"The master decided, however, that the direction-finding bearing was entirely inaccurate and disregarded it, holding his ship to the same course for a further forty minutes. At the end of that time, still navigating according to dead reckoning, he altered the course of the ship to turn into Halifax Harbor. Ten minutes later, just as Chebucto Head direction-finding station was being called for another bearing, the ship struck, and the request for a bearing was turned into a distress call. All the passengers were taken ashore safely, but six of the crew were lost."

Something To Think About

By Bruno Lessing

"Take the case of a man who doesn't smoke or drink or gamble, who is true to his wife and always gives first consideration to his home. Such a man is looked upon as a paragon of virtue. But the woman who doesn't smoke or drink or gamble, who is true to her husband and concentrates her attention upon the welfare of the home—why, there are so many millions of such women that you wouldn't think of their achievements as anything worth noticing. The reason for this is that men, to an extent, at least, are allowed to choose their course, while woman's course is still determined for her."

Hot stuff from Alice Paul, vice-chairman of the National Women's Party. Deponent saieth not whether said Alice aforesaid is married and has brought up children or is merely a miss.

The man she describes is truly a paragon of virtue. But so is the woman. And when Lady Alice says "you wouldn't think" any such achievement worth noticing, she must have a very stupid, prejudiced and unworthy "you" in her mind. Perhaps she thinks such people form the majority of mankind. Ah! That is a different matter. In that case their opinions on this subject are not worth taking into account. They have too many other things to learn first.

But all intelligent people have ever given as much credit to a woman of fine character as to a man.

There is one phase of this matter, however, that only parents of children rightly understand. And that is, in the up-bringing of the young the goodness of the father and the goodness of the mother are upon entirely different planes. The one—in this wicked world—may almost be called a luxury; the other is a necessity.

In the first fifteen years of their lives it is safe to say that children come in contact with their mother ten times as much as they do with their father. This is necessary and wholesome. Their first views of life are imbibed from their mother. To them, their mother absolutely must be a paragon of all the virtues.

A good father is truly desirable. But the shortcomings of a father may be overcome in the rearing of children by a wise and tactful mother. The shortcomings of a mother, however, create such heartache, such disillusionment and wreak such havoc in the life of a child that it loses forever its respect for and its trust in the whole sacred institution of motherhood.

And nothing in the world is more important than the proper bringing-up of children.

The Adventures of Lord Curzon—British Shipbuilding Declines—The Case Of General Oglethorpe —A New Kind Of Serial — Where Britain Leads in Aviation—London's "Little Season"

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 18.—Lord Curzon's newly published "Tales of Travels" should do something to get rid of the idea that the Foreign Secretary lives in an Olympian seclusion apart from human interests. Few men have travelled so far and so adventurously, and the book is written with the enthusiasm of a boy. He consoles himself with the thought that, though now he may be sedentary and middle aged, he too has heard the chimes at midnight. He has been stoned on the quays of Valencia, he has been the honored guest of murderers, he has been arrested as a spy, and he has revelled in strange sights and uncouth experiences. He tells sad stories of the death of kings, for most of his hosts seem to have come by tragic ends. Having no uniform when he went to stay with the Amir, he got a fancy one from Nathan and set a new fashion in Afghanistan. At Kirwan he managed to secure an entrance to a ghastly Dervish ritual by representing that he was a son of General Boulanger. He attended the Requiem Mass for King Victor Emmanuel by putting on dress clothes and passing as an Italian mayor, and at Teheran, where a top hat was necessary for an interview with the Shah, he absconded with the headgear of a French savant. What statesman of the day has so whole-heartedly followed the advice of Mr. Kipling's character, to "buy a ham and see life." Lord Curzon has had as many adventures as a Mexican President.

The decline in British shipbuilding has a special significance at a time when the Imperial Economic Conference is discussing means for the expansion and development of trade within the Empire. The total net tonnage under construction throughout the World is 2,377,697, of which Britain's share represents nearly 50 percent, but in spite of this high proportion, the situation is considered highly unsatisfactory, our tonnage having shrunk to one half of that completed in the twelve months immediately preceding the War. While local disturbances, such as the boilermakers' dispute, have considerably retarded the progress of the industry, the root of the evil is to be found in the stagnation which has for so long affected trade conditions the world over, and it is for that reason that a policy of general trade revival, with special regard to the needs of the Empire, such as is now engaging the attention of the Dominion Premiers, is the only cure for the disease which is affecting this vital industry.

The desire of the University of Atlanta to have the dust of the founder of Georgia within its territory is honorable and intelligible enough. It is the Greek idea of the colony which is consecrated by the possession of its creator's ashes. But the scheme was bound to fail. Savannah objected to Atlanta having the body, and the Bishop of Georgia objected to the whole thing. The ecclesiastical authorities of Granham in Essex, where the Oglethorpes are buried, alone were complaisant. The last word should, of course, have lain with the Oglethorpe family, but the great man left no direct posterity. He was one of the first protectors of the Methodists, for he took Charles Wesley and Whitefield with him to Georgia, and that Church might have something to say to the removal. But the strongest argument is based on ordinary human sentiment. A man must be assumed to have wished to remain where he chose to be buried, and if General Oglethorpe had desired to lie in Georgia he would have said so. He was a Jacobite, a Monarchist and a passionate Englishman, and we can imagine with what vehemence he would have repudiated the suggestion that his ashes should rest on a foreign and a republican shore. If his dust were to be removed to America, why not that of Sir Walter Raleigh, or of William Penn, or even of Edmund Burke?

Mr. Bernard Shaw's "Back to Methuselah," which has just been given in Birmingham, is an example of a new form of art. It is a serial play which takes three nights to produce. It is possible that we are about to see an extension of serialisation elsewhere than in the newspapers. We are familiar with the issue in parts of histories of the world and compilations of popular science; but in our grandfather's time popular novels also appeared in parts. Dickens and Thackeray delighted their readers with novels spread over the better part of a year, and the slim numbers now fetch a fancy price from book-collectors. Mr. Wells once had an idea of reviving this form of publication, and there is a good deal to be said for it.

We may expect that before long aviation will displace motor-cycling as a recreation for the young and active. The surprising advance made in the design and construction of the motor glider or light aeroplane in the past twelve months was revealed at this week's meeting at Lympne. It was assumed the machines would "glide" rather than fly, but the bicycle engines—of British make, be it noted—gave proof of unexpected qualities, ascending 14,000 feet, attaining a speed of 80 miles an hour and travelling an even greater distance on a gallon of petrol. An exciting experience befell one competitor who was carried out to sea but fought his way back and landed safely in a gale of wind, thus proving these miniature machines are not merely fair-weather craft; while others "looped the loop" and completed divers feats believed possible of achievement only by recognised aeroplanes. There was but one accident, although unfortunately it caused the death of that fine French pilot Maneyrol whose machine collapsed in mid-air. In this branch of aviation, at all events, we bid fair to lead the world.

London, is enjoying a "little" season and the various activities and attractions of the capital this autumn almost rival the fullness of the June days when the season proper was at its height. The influx of Americans has hardly lessened and there are many visitors from all parts of the Continent, the Dominions and the provinces. All the hotels are full; indeed, many of them are turning people away and the shopping centers, Regent Street, Bond Street and Oxford Street are crowded with busy shoppers of both sexes. The theaters too report an unusual amount of business for this time of the year. First nights follow one after the other, the latest play to be presented being "The Lie" by the veteran Henry Arthur Jones, forty-five years after the staging of his first play. The Motor-cycle and Motor Shows are very popular with visitors, especially those from the engineering centers of the Midlands and the North, while in the more serious political sphere the Imperial and Economic Conferences are providing interest for over-seas Britons. In spite of that nip in the air which October brings, the parks are almost as frequented as they were in the summer months, many strollers being attracted to Hyde Park, in particular, by a remarkably fine exhibition of dahlias and other autumn flowers, which give a wonderful color effect in the sunshine against the red and brown of the falling leaves.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have paregoric or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a few drops too many will produce the sleep from which there is no waking. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician knowing of what it is composed. Castoria does not contain narcotics.

W. A. CRANDALL, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

"I find your Castoria is very beneficial in the treatment of children's ailments."
F. DAVIS, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

"As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine and, aside from my own family experience, I have, in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."
WM. J. MCCRANN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"I object to what are called patent medicines, where the maker alone knows what stuff is put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use in proper cases. I judge it to be a very useful, as well as harmless family medicine."

Great Significance Is Attached In Italy To Visit Of Spanish King

(Reuter's Service)

Rome, Nov. 18.—Eighty miles from Spezia, King Alfonso and Queen Victoria of Spain received Italy's first welcome. Four dreadnoughts, fourteen destroyers and six submarines under the command of Admiral Solari, Commander-in-Chief of the Italian Navy, participated in the ceremony by firing a salvo of twenty-one guns. Immediately afterwards Admiral Thomas of Savoy, Duke of Genoa and cousin of the King of Italy, stepped on board he Spanish flagship and greeted the royal visitors.

The coming of the Spanish Sovereign to Rome at this period, only a year after the revolution placed Signor Mussolini in power in Italy, and a month after a similar revolution placed General de Rivera in power in Spain is full of political significance, the import of which cannot fail to be striking. This shows that one main aspect of Premier Mussolini's foreign policy is to cultivate closer relations and better understanding with Latin countries on the Mediterranean, which in his opinion should unite and follow a common policy in order to counter-balance the Anglo-Saxon influence over the world. It is important to point out that an ideal commercial treaty between Italy and Spain was signed only some days ago, this being the first treaty of its kind to be signed by both countries, with the exception of a provisional convention in 1914 which was denounced by Madrid in 1921.

It is also significant that General Prime de Rivera accompanied his Sovereign. The rulers of Spain and Italy will thus have an opportunity of meeting and communicating their views to each other.

Incidentally King Alfonso's visit to the Pope has afforded an opportunity for another proof to be given to the world of improved relations between the Italian State and the Holy See. Marquis Villalunda, Spanish Ambassador accredited to the Vatican, seized the opportunity afforded by the arrangements for welcoming the King of Spain to call on Signor Mussolini.

This is the first time in Italian history that a diplomat accredited to the Vatican has made an official visit on a member of the Italian Cabinet. This, together with the visit of the newly appointed Fascisti Governor of State and Deputy Secretary de Vecchi, to the Papal Secretary of State, constitute two facts of first-rate importance in the history of the relations between Italy and the Vatican.

Important as these aspects of the journey of the Spanish Sovereign to Rome undoubtedly are, they are completely overshadowed by the importance of the visit of Their Spanish Majesties to the Vatican. The King of Spain, who has the title of His Catholic Majesty, is the second Roman Catholic Ruler to visit Rome with the consent of the Pope since abrogation of the ban pronounced by Pius IX against any Catholic Ruler being the guest of "the usurping House of Savoy." The first was the King of the Belgians, who was in Rome last year, but owing to the greater importance of Spain, also a Catholic country, the visit of King Alfonso completely overshadows that of King Albert.

It will be remembered that only three Catholic Representatives, the Prince of Monaco, President Loubet of France and King Ferdinand of Bulgaria braved the Pope's displeasure by accepting the hospitality of the King of Italy.

It is stated also that King Alfonso is visiting Italy not only to pay his respects to King Victor Emmanuel and Pope Pius XI but also to negotiate with the Vatican a modus vivendi to put an end to differences which at present exist between Church and State in Spain. These differences concern religious orders in Spain and their rapid increase in number in recent years, specially after promulgation of Association Law in France when many religious orders migrated into Spain. This is a serious matter for Spain, where the State, by the constitution, must support the clergy.

That the Vatican is keenly aware of the importance of King Alfonso's visit to the Pope is proved by the extraordinary preparations which are being made to receive him. All Rulers, both Catholic and non-Catholic, who were received by Popes since 1970 were received in private, but King Alfonso will be given a public reception. The whole Papal Court assembled in their gorgeous and colorful mediaeval costumes, against the background of the wonderful Vatican Hall, will receive him.

U. S. INFANTRY IS PRESENTED WITH COLORS

Tientsin Troops Given New Flag By Colonel's Wife

Mrs. King, wife of the Colonel commanding the 15th United States Infantry, presented the regiment with new colors at a regimental review in Tientsin on last Thursday.

The Fifteenth Infantry was first formed as a regular Army unit May 4, 1821. During the Civil War it participated in the Battle of Shiloh, the Battle of Stone River, Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge, Kenesaw Mountain, and the Battle of Jonesborough.

After a long period of inaction, the regiment again saw action arriving in Cuba on December 5, 1898.

In 1900 the Boxer Rebellion again called the regiment to foreign service, arriving at Taku in August 1900. After a varied service in China and the Philippines the entire regiment returned home September 12, 1902.

Three years later the regiment was again called to the Philippines to assist in putting down the Moro uprisings. December 12, 1907 again saw the regiment in the States, where it remained until 1911.

On January 18, 1912, the advance elements again set foot in China, to be soon followed by the remainder of the outfit. Since that time the Fifteenth Infantry has constituted the China Expedition.

The various flags and colors present at the ceremony marked the many services and engagements in which the regiment has participated. Many show the mark of campaign as well as age.

The place of honor as colorbearer fell to Sgt. Dunbar of the Service Company, his service with the regiment being continuous since 1905.

Sucking these palatable, harmless tablets promotes an abundant flow of saliva, which itself is rendered germicidal. Thus the whole mouth and throat are slowly saturated with a soothing, healing antiseptic fluid, which penetrates everywhere.

With the destruction of the causative bacteria, swelling and inflammation subside, and Nature does the rest—without the fuss and trouble of old-fashioned methods like gargling or painting the throat with caustic and nauseating chemicals.
